NON-EAAE SEMINARS, WORKSHOPS AND CONGRESSES

FAO/WHO GIFT releases statistics and infographics on the environmental impacts of individual food consumption to support informed decision-making for healthy diets from sustainable food systems.

FAO/WHO Global Individual Food Consumption Data Tool (<https://www.fao.org/gift-individual-food-consumption/en/>) is an innovative, open-access tool, which supports stakeholders to access data on what and how much people eat and drink. The platform is a growing data repository that leverages existing quantitative dietary intake data at an individual level to support informed decision making and improve national and subnational food and nutrition policies. FAO/WHO GIFT allows users to download data for free and provides statistics and infographics based on this data which can be used for multiple purposes, including for nutrition and food safety.

Recently, FAO/WHO GIFT was enhanced to include new statistics and infographics on the environmental impacts of diets. Incorporating planetary health considerations into dietary assessment is crucial to promote healthy diets from sustainable agri-food systems. The purpose of the infographics is to illustrate the estimated impact of diets on the environment using real individual-level quantitative dietary intake data.

The new infographics provide estimates of the greenhouse gas emissions, water use and land use associated with diets in two different ways: (a) estimated environmental impacts per person per day, broken down by food groups, subgroups and items; (b) estimated environmental impacts per 1000 kilocalories, 10 g of protein or 100 mg of calcium, per person per day. Average environmental impacts are presented, together with hypothetical scenarios showing lower or higher environmental impacts.

FAO/WHO GIFT aims to improve the availability and access to individual-level quantitative dietary intake data for policy makers, researchers and program planners to enable them to use existing data and evidence about what people eat and drink. By presenting information on the environmental impacts of dietary intake, FAO/WHO GIFT will offer evidence to support informed decisions on actions, interventions, and policies for sustainable and healthy diets for people and the planet.

International Research Symposium on Agricultural Greenhouse Gas Mitigation: From Research to Implementation, 21-23 October 2024, Berlin, Germany

The event, hosted by the German Federal Ministry of Food and Agriculture (BMEL), will foster international exchange on the implementation of climate mitigation measures and low-emission development strategies in agriculture and food systems, set new priorities and ideas for research cooperation and give new impetus to existing and emerging network activities. It is co-organised by GRA (Global Research Alliance on Agricultural Greenhouse Gases), CGIAR (Consultative Group on International Agricultural Research) and the German Federal Research Institute Thuenen. The deadline for abstract submission has been closed. For more information visit: www.agrighg-2024.de

ERAE information

Special Issue of the European Review of Agricultural Economics in Memory of Gudbrand Lien
Gudbrand Lien, Professor of Economics at Inland Norway University of Applied Sciences and Senior Researcher at Norwegian Institute of Bioeconomy Research, passed away unexpectedly in March 2024.

In his memory, the ERAE will publish a special issue with contributions related to Gudbrand's research interests and work. We therefore welcome submissions on the following topics:

- Risk management in agriculture
- Production economics
- Productivity and efficiency
- Innovation in tourism industry

Submissions will undergo rigorous double-blind peer review according to the ERAE submission guidelines. Please submit your manuscript before August 31, 2024, via the online portal at <https://academic.oup.com/erae>. All submissions will go through an expedited peer review process. When submitting, please select "Special Issue in Memory of Gudbrand Lien" as the Article Type to ensure your manuscript is routed to the special issue guest editors. Please email the guest editors, Ashok Mishra (Ashok.K.Mishra@asu.edu), Subal Kumbhakar (kkar@binghamton.edu) and Salvatore Di Falco (salvatore.difalco@unige.ch), with any questions and concerns.

Review articles

The European Review of Agricultural Economics welcomes proposals for review articles from EAAE members. Review articles should provide a comprehensive and scholarly account of a topic that has direct relevance to agricultural economics (methodological or applied) and that has not recently been covered in the literature. A pre-submission enquiry is required. If you are interested in writing a review article for ERAE, please send an abstract, outline, and key references to erae.editorialoffice@oup.com

New editor ERAE

The board of the EAAEP Foundation, our publication committee, appointed Alessandro Olper (University of Milano) as a new editor of the European Review of Agricultural Economics. From September 1, 2024 he will replace Salvatore Di Falco, who served the journal very well since September 2018.

Q Open information

Special section for your EU project in Q Open

EU projects provide an excellent opportunity to publish a coherent set of articles. Q Open offers the possibility to publish such sets of articles as a special section in a regular issue. This way, your project results will be much better brought to the attention of other researchers and stakeholders. Also, by publishing your research in Q Open you will satisfy an important requirement of all EU funding in regard to Open Access and Open Science.

Those interested in publishing a special section on their EU project in Q Open can contact the coordinating editor, Iain Fraser.

General information

Open access journal Q Open is making progress:

- We have been informed by Scopus that they have accepted Q Open for indexing. This is an important first step in being included in the major indexes and achieving an impact factor.
- We have a new manuscript transfer arrangement with the ERAE. Manuscripts submitted to the ERAE, but considered a better fit with the objectives of Q Open can now be transferred directly for consideration for publication.
- Q Open is also well on track to reach key-performance indicators on growth in the number of manuscripts and in the turn-around time for review.

See our website for submission details: <https://academic.oup.com/qopen>

Members information

EAAE members can access their registration card through the EAAE login on the homepage of the EAAE using their email address and personal password. You can login here. If you forget your password, you can retrieve or modify it. Upon login, you will also find the link for free access of EuroChoices online!

As a member, you can post vacancies and non-EAAE events on our website. Simply login, go to 'Post events (congress, seminars, courses, PhD activities) and Jobs', select 'New', and your information will be visible on the website after the approval of the secretariat.

Who is going to help to improve our communication?

The EAAE Board has established the Communication Committee to assist and advise on communication matters. In the near future, this committee aims to enhance the EAAE website and develop a comprehensive communication plan. The Board is seeking enthusiastic and competent individuals to contribute ideas and insights for both initiatives. It's important to note that you will not be constructing the website or drafting the communication plan, professionals will be hired for these tasks.

If you are interested, please send an email to secretariat@eaae.org.
